

The Effect of Remote Work on Employee Wellbeing

Cormac Porter

Aim of the Project	Objective	Pros & Cons	Results
The Aim of the dissertation is to get a better understanding of how remote work affected employees.	1.Preform literature view of my title (effect of remote work on employee wellbeing) 2.Explore impact of remote work on well-being 3.Explore challenges and benefits of remote work (pro's and con's) 4.Restrictions and laws surrounding remote work 5.The best methods for implementing remote work	Pros <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Employees can spend more time with heir families while working from home2. Employees have less commute time per week reducing stress3. Childcare costs reduced due to a parent at home that can do the school pickup or the afterschool care4. Less monitoring from managers on your progress5. Healthier diet as you can cook your own food fresh for lunch break Cons <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Social isolation as employees don't have Colleagues to converse with.2. Bad direction of tasks from mangers lead to stress and anxiety3. Harder to get focused and in the zone to do work4. Difficult to get recognized for a promotion5. Response times are longer between work colleagues on sorting out possible problems during the workday.	The results for this project were acquired by a survey handed out to relevant people and by interviews conducted by myself. Displaying results on a graph like below make them far easier to be understood. The results found that people did want to return to the workplace after remote work was not as easy as they first thought. If you were asked tomorrow to go back to working from the workplace, would you?11 responses<table><tr><th>Response</th><th>Percentage</th></tr><tr><td>Yes</td><td>54.5%</td></tr><tr><td>No</td><td>45.5%</td></tr><tr><td>Maybe</td><td>0%</td></tr></table> Figure 5: results on going back to the workplace With your colleagues, would you classify your relationships as work only relationships or relationships that are carried outside the workplace?10 responses<table><tr><th>Relationship Type</th><th>Percentage</th></tr><tr><td>Work only relationships</td><td>40%</td></tr><tr><td>Relationships carried outside the workplace</td><td>60%</td></tr></table> Figure 6: relationships in/out of work Here we see people had relationships outside the workplace which would of suffered during remote work, while some people kept their social life and work life separate in terms relationships. Would being surrounded by your colleagues contribute to keeping a positive mental health?10 responses<table><tr><th>Response</th><th>Percentage</th></tr><tr><td>Yes</td><td>70%</td></tr><tr><td>No</td><td>20%</td></tr><tr><td>Maybe</td><td>10%</td></tr></table> Figure 7: promoting good mental health Majority shows here that being surrounded by people promotes positive mental health.	Response	Percentage	Yes	54.5%	No	45.5%	Maybe	0%	Relationship Type	Percentage	Work only relationships	40%	Relationships carried outside the workplace	60%	Response	Percentage	Yes	70%	No	20%	Maybe	10%
Response	Percentage
Yes	54.5%
No	45.5%
Maybe	0%
Relationship Type	Percentage
Work only relationships	40%
Relationships carried outside the workplace	60%
Response	Percentage
Yes	70%
No	20%
Maybe	10%

Background

The background of this dissertation is an in depth analysis into the wellbeing of employees involved or previously involved in working from home. Remote work became very popular through the recent pandemic.

Figure 1: meter to measure employee happiness

The first perception of employee's idea of remote work was the freedom they would have while completing their work duties, But not many thought that the lack of social contact with their colleagues would have such an effect on their wellbeing. Work boundaries were hard set for many people as their home life and work life was under the same roof. Once a plan was set outlining start times and finish times, it gave employees more direction and grounding in helping with the adaption to this new work style.

Figure 2: Happy employee

Figure 3: stressed and unhappy employee

Figure 4: Pros & Cons diagram